Calcey Technology	www.calcey.com	1. Bespoke software development as fixed priced projects - For clients that require a specific, well-defined software solution built on a fixed budget and timeline, Calcey undertakes fixed-price projects. For such projects, the scope of work is defined in detail and frozen at the beginning to allow for accurate time and effort estimates to be made. Calcey's ability to provide teams specifically tailored for quick turnaround of such projects, while maintaining high-quality levels have made us a preferred vendor among many small to medium scale enterprises.	1. Corporates that require external/extended teams to carry out some of their software development work in collaboration with their in-house tech team
		2. Extended software product engineering teams - Calcey provides teams made up of architects, software engineers, designers, QA engineers, and project managers that work in close collaboration with client teams on a retainer basis. These resources are dedicated to one client and hence assimilate the client's domain, technology stack, and work processes over time leading to increased productivity, ability to work independently, and co-create with client teams. Teams operate in an agile fashion, delivering work in progress releases to clients after every sprint cycle. High-quality engineering, transparency, and reliability are the reasons clients choose to work with Calcey's extended teams.	2. Scale-ups (high growth technology companies that cannot attract the development resources they need to keep pace with their growth)
